

Dr. Mitch Kanter

Mitch Kanter, PhD serves as the Science/Technical Director for the Global Dairy Platform, a collaboration of global dairy companies, associations, and scientific partners that build evidence of dairy's role in the diet, and demonstrate the sector's commitment to responsible and sustainable food production. During his 30-year career in the food and agriculture industries, Dr. Kanter has served in various technical leadership roles for several multinational companies, including the Quaker Oats Co, General Mills, and Cargill, as well various agriculture industry organizations. Dr. Kanter holds a PhD from The Ohio State University, and Master's Degrees from Queens College in New York. He also served as an NIH Post-Doctoral Research Fellow in the Dept of Preventive Medicine at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis.